1

The trainer gives participants the sheet of white paper and the poster with instructions.

2

Each trainee has to make their own SWOT analysis of their participation in the organisation.

3

The instructor supports them in their problem-solving process by facilitating them to answer the questions.

The instructor can make small groups which work together if the task is too demanding. Then the group has participants who can mentor others.

4

The instructor gathers the group to explore the answers they have gathered.

The instructor helps them to find the right place in the group based on their answers.
